PLANNING FOR OUR FUTURE

September – October 2017

Facility Planning Committee (FPC) Update

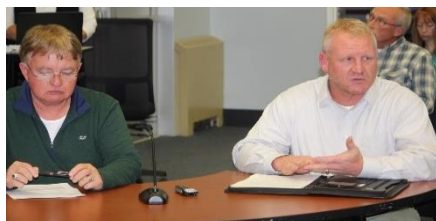

The Facilities Planning Committee learned about five possible options for dealing with the District's growing enrollment at its meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 26. The 150-minute meeting included a presentation from Jackie Gilles and Chris Michaud of Eppstein Uhen Architects in which they explained each of the options and showed preliminary site drawings and information about how capacity might change with each option.

Preliminary Options

- Add an elementary school with capacity for 525 students adjacent to Pope Farm Conservancy.
- Put additions on at Park and West Middleton, along with other key renovations, to increase capacity by 100 students at each school.
- Add classrooms and other core spaces at Glacier Creek to make it a 12-section school with capacity for 1,200 students.
- Add a middle school adjacent to Pope Farm Conservancy with capacity for 550 students.
- Add a building west of MHS and CSCS while also renovating the current MHS building in two phases. CSCS would move into the new building, The changes would increase capacity to 2,913 students, which is a net increase of more than 800 students over the current capacity.

Board Feedback

- The Board received a similar presentation on options from Andy Lyons and Chris Michaud at its meeting on Oct. 16.
- FPC co-chairs Luke Francois and Bob Hesselbein reported that members identified pros, cons and key considerations for each option and prioritized creating additional capacity at the high school in particular.
- The Board was appreciative of the work done by the FPC so far and hopes to begin narrowing options at its meeting on Nov. 6 in advance of the community workshops.
